Underpinning Theory

1. First Language Acquisition

- a. A baby's brain grows more than 1 million new neural connections each second, for the first 3 years of life.
- b. First language acquisition relies on the neuroplasticity of the infant's brain to absorb and retain language.
- c. The acquisition of syntax in a first language has a critical period that ends towards the first year of life.
- d. Age 4 is the upper limit for acquisition of a second language with native-like capabilities.
- e. The critical period for syntactic acquisition is birth to age one year, with birth to four months of age proving to be particularly critical for syntax acquisition.
- f. A child is hard wired for a first language by age 4 years and any subsequent language will be acquired as a second language

7

2. Phonemic Acquisition

0-6 months – vowel sounds oo, ee, ah

6-12 months – m, d, b

1-2 years – p, b, m, n, t, d

2-4 years – k, g, f, s, y, h

4-5 years – sh, ch, j, z, l, v

5-6 years – th, w, r, q, x

8

3. Intergenerational Language Transfer

1. Resource family intergenerational language transfer processes through the provision of materials
2. Resource the family to maintain language sovereignty.
3. Resource the family to maintain agency over their heritage language.
4. Resource the family to engage in literacy engagement strategies.
5. Resource the family to engage in literacy development strategies.
6. Resource parents as their child's first teachers.
7. Resource the family to engage in positive and enjoyable language and literacy activities.

9

Engaging the Whole Family

1. Resource in the pack can be used individually.
2. Materials included in the pack that engage the parent - wordfind and crossword puzzle book,
3. Resources included in the pack that engage older children - colouring in book, picture and word match book.
4. Materials for the home – alphabet poster, 100 Word of Ngadju poster.
5. Resources included in the pack that engage the community – t-shirts for children, roper suit for babies with Ngadju slogans on them, banner for the community.

Process

1. Engage families through the native title prescribed body corporate.
2. Sign up families to receive the resources for 2 years.
3. Deliver a new pack of resources to the family every 3 months.
4. Meet with the family every six months for feedback and assessment on the family pack materials and processes.
5. Create a YouTube channel for the films.
6. Place all material on the Language Centre's website for continued access.
7. Development of a 2-5 year old family pack.
8. Maintain the program for 20 years i.e. one generation
